SUPERFAST BROADBAND ARRIVES IN MOST SW SURREY VILLAGES

Following relentless campaigning by Jeremy both as Cabinet Minister and local MP superfast broadband is now becoming available in Brook, Grayswood, Chiddingfold and Witley.

MORE DOCTORS AND NURSES AT THE ROYAL SURREY!

Jeremy campaigned hard for more doctors and nurses when he was Health Secretary. The latest figures show the Royal Surrey secured an extra 111 doctors and 232 nurses during his time in office.

VICTORY IN BATTLE FOR MINOR INJURIES UNIT

HASLEMERE HOSPITAL'S MINOR INJURIES UNIT WILL REMAIN OPEN, HEALTH SECRETARY Matt Hancock confirmed recently to Jeremy Hunt in Parliament in a major victory for campaigners including Jeremy who fought hard to stop the potential closure.

In Jeremy's recent survey of opinion about the future of the unit, an overwhelming majority has backed Jeremy's campaign to save it from closure. 96% of respondents said they felt 'very strongly' about the need to save the unit, with three quarters saying they had used it in the last year. The unit is used by 8,000 people every year and is a lifeline for older residents who would otherwise face an 8 mile journey to the Royal Surrey. "Public support is crucial in getting the NHS to change its mind in these situations so thank you to everyone who backed the campaign," said Jeremy who led the campaign to save Haslemere Hospital in 2004 and the Royal Surrey County Hospital in 2007.

JEREMY'S RECORD OF ACTION

Campaigning for Haslemere, Milford and Royal Surrey hospitals

In 2004 Jeremy led the campaign to save the Haslemere Hospital and Milford Hospital and then in 2007 he spearheaded the campaign to stop the closure of the Royal Surrey.

Fighting to save the Haslemere Post Office and dementia centre

Instrumental in saving the dementia centre in 2017 and in 2019 Jeremy secured a promise from Post Office CEO Paula Vennells to maintain a Post Office in West Street.

Campaigning for superfast broadband and mobile phone coverage

Jeremy grew up in a Surrey village and has campaigned relentlessly on issues that matter to local villages such as access to 4G networks, rural 'not spots' and superfast broadband.

A&E PRESSURE 'WOULD GET WORSE'

52% OF HASLEMERE RESIDENTS HAVE used the Royal Surrey's A&E in the last year with 20% saying they had excellent and timely care but nearly a third saying they had excellent care but had to wait too long.

"Closing the MIU would have meant an extra 30 patients a day using the Royal Surrey where the pressure would only get worse," said Jeremy. The A&E, which was recently refurbished following a grant made during Jeremy's time as Health Secretary, is a vital local resource but is still struggling to cope with increasing demand – another reason Jeremy thinks the MIU must be kept open.

SOLUTION IS LONGER OPENING HOURS NOT CLOSURE

KEEPING THE MIU OPEN AT WEEKENDS was the most popular way to encourage more use of the Unit, according to Jeremy's huge town-wide survey.

Around half of residents replying said keeping it open to 8 pm in the evening would help, but nearly three quarters backed weekend opening to encourage use. Evening opening is particularly significant because the period between 5 pm and 8 pm in the evening is one of the busiest for Guildford's A&E, so opening for longer could be a vital way to reduce pressure before the busy night shift starts. "If NHS guidelines say Urgent Treatment Centres should be open 8 till 8 7 days a week then we should make that investment in Haslemere's MIU rather than shoot ourselves in the foot by closing it," commented Jeremy.

ONLY A CONSERVATIVE MP CAN STOP CORBYN

MORE FOCUSON DENIENTACARE

PRESERVING A DAY CENTRE FOR residents with dementia was a top priority for Jeremy, who focused on dementia during his time as Health Secretary leading to record dementia diagnosis rates and the founding of a new national dementia institute.

In Haslemere Jeremy sprang into action when the Marjorie Gray Hall was under threat. Jeremy helped negotiate a safe future for the newly named Hunter Centre bringing relief to many local families coping with the pressure of a loved-one with dementia.

SURREY MUST GET FAIR SHARE OF EXTRA POLICE, JEREMY DEMANDS

WHEN HE BECAME PRIME MINISTER BORIS JOHNSON PROMISED AN EXTRA 20,000 police officers but Jeremy believes too often rural counties like Surrey are overlooked when allocations are made.

Jeremy has therefore been campaigning to make sure Surrey gets its share of the extra police. Although Waverley is the safest borough in Surrey, reported crime went up 4.9% last year equating to an extra 20 reported crimes every month. There have been particular issues too, with a spate of anti-social behaviour near train stations and burglaries in many villages. "It is vital we deal with the increasing levels of reported crime quickly which is why I want to see more police officers assigned to Waverley," said Jeremy. "I know extra PCSOs are on the way, but I would like to see us benefit from the 20,000 new officers that have recently been announced."

- ▶ Jeremy Corbyn will destroy our economy meaning less money for public services like the NHS.
- A vote for the Lib Dems makes it more likely Corbyn will become our Prime Minister.
- The Lib Dems can't win a majority but they can deliver 3 more years of confusion if they hold the balance of power.
